

After morning roll call, the guards march from the courtyard to their posts.

The Pope's Swiss Guard

The world's smallest army is getting smaller all the time. It exists only to defend the Pope and bears one of the oldest type of arms still in use today. They are the Vatican's elite Swiss Guard.

The guard can look back on 450 years of tradition—to the time Pope Julius called in the first 150 Swiss guards—and know that, by reason of tradition alone if nothing else, it will never be allowed to disappear altogether.

Unusual aspects of the 75-man guard corps are many: It is perhaps the most difficult military force in the world to join. Starting pay for recruits is more than that of an American army private. Its sentinel boxes are at the border of a state no bigger than 108 acres. Its basic weapon is the medieval halberd, a long heavy pole tipped with a hooked blade. Its single unchanged mission through the centuries has been to protect the life of the Pontiff, yet the last time the guard fought was almost a century ago.

European prosperity and the toughest recruiting standards in the world have made it steadily harder to find recruits for the guard. But the need for swelled ranks has also passed so the reduced corps size is hardly a problem any more.

Enlistment is for a minimum two-year hitch. Pay starts at $161 a month, minus $32 for food and quarters.

Who can join? Only men between 19 and 25 who are single, Roman Catholic, Swiss by birth, of unquestioned moral character and who have completed their four-week basic military training in Switzerland.

In the arms store room of the guard's barracks in the Vatican, steel helmets and breast plates, which are worn on full dress occasions, are kept ready.

With his left hand on the guard flag and right hand raised, a recruit swears to protect the Pope, even at the cost of his life.

Members of the guard perform a change of guard ceremony at one of the entrances to the Vatican complex.

In the traditional uniform, designed by Michelangelo, a guard assists tourists at the Arch of Bells. The colorful uniforms delight Vatican tourists.

While the Guard's traditional weapon is the halberd, rifles are also used, primarily by sentry box guards.

Here a member of the guard checks some of the rifles kept in the arms store room in the guard's barracks.

Pope Paul VI blesses the guard at a swearing-in ceremony held on May 6 each year to commemorate a day in 1527 when all but 42 of a 189-man guard force died fighting 1,000 Germans to protect Clement VII.

Letters to the Editor

more Americans turn 65 and find that $5.00 saved before World War II is now worth only $1.85. We have over 5 1/2 million citizens on Social Security who have a total yearly income of $2,000, or less and find they are going in debt each year and gradually sliding into poverty.

The future belongs to young people but senior citizens own our past and that is as it should be. Each day takes us nearer our sunset and our love for life should grow with our years. We work and save for financial security and will be self-supporting in old age and not a burden on family, friends or society.

Citizens who have led active lives are miserable when their time is wasted and their days have no purpose or direction. Life teaches us that happiness is earned by being useful and having worthwhile work to do, most of us loathe idleness and yearn for something to do, something to hope for. When we reach the age of retirement and find we are considered too old to learn how to handle modern labor-saving machines or train for new technical jobs of this day and age we resent being put on the useless shelf.

Even the healthy with strong bodies, keen and alert minds, who possess great powers of persistence and unusual talents often have no clue as to how to use their creativity and energy to transform dull, empty days into delightful accomplishments. Far too many employers lose sight of the fact that elderly men and women are the true beneficiaries of the past and have valuable time-tested know-how, good judgment and personal contacts they earned from experience. When such people are given a chance they prove to be efficient, dependable and profitable workers.

Many wealthy citizens retire expecting their carefree years to be filled with pleasure, rich in hope and promise. Then they find that inactive leisure does not bring contentment and that their money cannot buy happiness. They remember they were happy and contented when they were busy and start looking for something to do that will add zest to the extra years that have been added to their lives by medical science, modern surgery and miracle drugs. Finding employment to fit the needs of elderly people is not easy and often impossible. I know because I looked for that kind of work after I retired.

The dreams of our senior citizens are being shattered and our peace of mind is being destroyed by fear of the future. Now we see that our No. 1 enemy is inflation and that we are being victimized by a system that was supposed to help us.

I had reconciled myself to old age and death but I can not reconcile myself to being a useless burden while I am waiting to die. That thought worries me more than dying. The greatest service our government can render its senior citizens is to stop inflation. The way to make our dollar stable is to wage war on excessive federal spending and roll back advancing prices. That would help the old and the young. Sincerely Yours,

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television producers, like custom tailors, usually can turn out anything a client orders, but the remodeling of a planned evening soap opera called "Men vs. Evil" into a forthright police-action show called "Felony Squad" must have taxed even broadcasting's most flexible writers.

The project started at a time when the success of "Peyton Place" was persuading packageers that its serial form was the hottest thing on the channels.

"Some guy called and asked if I'd be interested in a project like 'Peyton Place' but built around a police department," recalled actor Ben Alexander, the forgettable Officer Frank Smith through eight seasons of "Dragnet."

Alexander, an off-hand type who seems able to squeeze all sorts of extra activities in and around his basic occupations of running a string of automobile agencies and a chain of funeral parlors, said sure, although he raised an eyebrow even then at the kick-off situation: a police captain with a wife who has taken to drinking when her young daughter becomes seriously involved with the chief's son.

"Peyton Place" did not start a trend, and ultimately the sudsy aspects of "Men vs. Evil" were cut out along with the women's roles. Eventually it evolved as a straight series about a police sergeant, Howard Duff, and a young cop and his father, Alexander, a veteran policeman. The show went through a tortured period of title changes, from "The Force," to "The Heavy Squad" and finally, "Felony Squad." It will be launched on ABC's Tuesday night schedule in about a fortnight.

"I play the same kind of guy that I was in 'Dragnet,'" Alexander said, "except that this time I'm in uniform. I think we're pulling together a good, old-fashioned police action story, and maybe it's about time for one."

Concerned Over Violations

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India's Foreign Ministry said today it was "seriously concerned" at reports of violations of the Viet Nam demilitarized zone, especially bombings by American planes.

EVERY WOMAN WHO CARES how she looks is searching for a way to make her skin soft and supple. A carefree, sun-filled summer exposes your skin to the drying effects of the elements. To combat these comes a complete bath treatment collection by Savon Clair catering to individual skin types and personal bathing preferences. Lightweight, unbreakable tube (left) holds a foam formula which is a relaxing bubble-bath treatment. It can also be applied directly to the body in the shower. Its softening ingredients are effective in both soft and hard water. Body toner and moisturizer (right), when used after bathing or before retiring, will help keep elbows, heels, knees and hands soft. It's also a good leg treatment for after shaving.

Couldn't Think of Name So Whynot

By SAM MORTON
WHYNOT, N.C. (AP) — Why did they name Whynot Whynot? "Why not?" says Mrs. M. C. Auman, who's lived about 60 of her 73 years in Whynot. "They couldn't think of anything else."

"At least that's what my mother told me," adds Mrs. Auman. "And that's the story most folks agree to."

Elderly J. B. Slack, born and reared in Whynot, agrees. Sometime before the turn of the century, he says, Whynot's menfolk got together to name their community.

"They suggested a lot of names and couldn't agree," says Slack. "It got later and later. Finally, somebody said, 'Why not call it Whynot?' So they did."

Whynot is two miles from Seagrove, three miles from Jugtown, eight miles from Erect, 13 miles from Ether, 15 miles from Star and 32 miles south of Greensboro in the rolling hills of central North Carolina.

Whynot isn't on many road maps and not in the Postal Guide.

You can miss it if you're not careful because someone tore down its only road sign. The only building on the highway bearing "Whynot" is the Whynot Upholstery Co. It is the community's only real industry. Most of the residents farm.

Nobody's sure exactly how big Whynot is.

"It's all according to how far you want to extend it. A lot of people live in these hills," says Slack, a retired regional director for the Farmers Home Administration.

How many people does Whynot have?

"Let me think a minute," said Arden Macon. "There are a lot of children born recently that I haven't seen. I guess there's anywhere from 75 to 150."

Whynot, says Mrs. Slack, used to be on the old plank road from Winston-Salem to Wilmington on the coast.

"And Whynot," Slack recalls, "had one of the best schools in North Carolina years ago. It was Whynot Academy and was a boarding school. It went through the seventh grade and attracted students from all over this part of the state. A lot of people knew about Whynot because of that school."

"But the schoolhouse burned in 1915 and only the church was left beside it. Then some years ago, they removed the post office and made the mail address Seagrove."

Seagrove has several hundred people, several stores, the post office, and it's on a major highway, U.S. 220.

"But the people in Whynot are proud," says Slack. "They don't like to be known as being from Seagrove. They want to be from Whynot."

SAVING ON WEDDING EXPENSES, AFTER WEDDING

Dear Helen: My wedding cost $2,000, money I'd saved myself, but it was the best investment I ever made. I not only got a wonderful husband, but a thriving business from the experience.

You see, there I was with a $250 gown, plus accessories that I'd never wear again. Then a friend asked if she could rent the dress. I thought, what could I lose! So, I let her use it for $15, provided she'd be responsible for any damage.

I rented my gown, veil, etc. that year until I came out even, with a little profit, and it was still new enough to save for posterity.

Then my husband and I put our heads together and came up with a "Marriage Consultant Service," which manages weddings from engagement through planning the wedding trip — if they wish. We know how to shop and we get discounts, so we can save the couple more money than they pay us in fees. Moreover, we take all the worry away. We arrange everything, even the photographs. What they don't want to buy, we rent; and next year we plan to build a little wedding chapel, where receptions can be held after the ceremony, and champagne can be served (as it can't be in church.) Each year we add more service, as we can afford it.

We're still in our 20's, but we have a business of our own, and it all came about through getting married! I recommend it for everyone. — Marry-Mates
Dear Marry-Mates: Congratulations! May your business prosper and your happiness increase. I'm sure you two wedding consultants will never need a marriage counselor. — H.

PERFECT SQUELCH DEPARTMENT

Dear Helen: I want the perfect squelch for a guy who needs one. You see, he thinks he knows everything, is always chopping people down, but really, he does not know anything. He never tells a story straight, and he tells stories about everybody. Then he calls the rest of us stupid — Hopping.

Dear Hopping: How about, "Chum, you have a Teflon mind — nothing sticks to it!"? — H.

Dear Helen: I note that sometimes you say "You've got to, . . . do such and such. YOU MUST go back to school and learn your English grammar. — English Major

Dear Major: Sorry, I've "GOT TO" be emphatic at times, "like" a columnist should.

Grammar is like rigid etiquette; you should learn the rules so that, when the occasion demands, you can break them intelligently. — H.

Dear Helen: I know you can't give out names of soldiers, sailors or Marines, but — if people want to write to fellows in the combat areas — Here's how to do it: Send your letters, airmail to SERVICE MAN OF THE UNITED STATES, c/o General

The Boutique

By HELEN HENNESSY
Newspaper Enterprise Women's Editor

PARIS—(NEA)—Paris has done a turnabout in its thinking on youth. And so fell the last stronghold of the mature woman.

Although London and New York turned over the keys to the kingdom to everyone between 18 and 20, in Paris old ladies of 30 were still considered more attractive than the young chicks. Teen-agers were supervised closely by parents, dressed like neat schoolgirls and had a naive charm that was no competition for their older sisters' sophistication. Their turn would come when they were grown up (remember Gigi?) and 16 wasn't grown up.

But now—quelle difference! Youth is a force to be reckoned with. Part-time jobs are being held down by school kids; parents are doing out bigger allowances; young people have money to spend and business is catering to them.

Boutiques designed just for young people dot the city. Clothes are sold for moderate prices and the styles are young. In some the record player's beat would make you think you were in London's Carnaby Street.

Beauty salons have special departments for juniors where the dry comb straightens long hair and the price is right.

At the three big drugstores (where everything from expensive shoes to china is sold) there are booths where youngsters gather to play and buy records of their favorite singing groups and everyone over 20 stays away.

There are no less than five

its own is even more evident at some discotheques. Like Gaul, they are divided into three parts. At sidewalk tables the oldsters sit to eat and drink while through the windows they can listen to a combo or records from the upstairs room where the aging 25 to 40 dance. In a downstairs room are records and another combo where youth prevails and no one who saw the light of day in the early '50s is welcome.

Yet, perhaps as a hangover from the former parental attitude that the voice of the young should be heard but not necessarily adhered to, the young Parisians have good manners. And in spite of the fashion shockers we see from the y-e-e designers the kids have good clothes sense, too. The uniform is a co-ordinated sweater and skirt; low, chunky heels; clean, pulled-back or braided hair; little make-up and not much jewelry. Miniskirts are worn by a few, but not the majority. But pants suits have caught on.

The type of shoe known as the blucher was named for a Prussian field marshal.

God's Word Says Come

Come let us go into the House of the Lord

all clear

In the "railroad" business the brakeman's lantern means everything. His "signal lantern" preceded the driver's "stop and go light. It must be obeyed. The brakeman, like God, must give us the "all clear." It is the only way we may know the track is clear, the switch in place, for us to move with confidence. How reassuring when we know that God is clearing the way ahead of us.

If you were ever in a business a righteous God could not bless, then, you well know how it hurts not to be able to get His "all clear." But He warned us, "There is a way that seemeth right, but the end is death." If one's destination is Heaven, it is important that he get on the main line and keep on going. Let us take the church as our "brakeman." It will not signal us wrong. Let us worship God in her pews every week and support her many programs of service.

You In The Church
The Church In You
— form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Close Contact Promotes Spread of 'Mono' Virus By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—How does one get infectious mononucleosis? What are the symptoms, the usual duration of illness and the aftereffects? Is rest the only treatment?

A—The cause of this disease is a virus. There is some evidence that it is spread by close contact as it often makes its appearance in college students a week or two after Christmas vacation or spring vacation. The disease gets its name from the fact that it is accompanied by a marked increase in the number of mononuclear white cells in the blood.

The disease is characterized by fever, sore throat and enlarged tender lymph nodes in the neck. It is the latter symptom that gave the disease its former name—glandular fever. Recovery usually occurs in about a week but in some victims convalescence may be slow and the weakness following the disease may persist for several weeks. Some victims have a complete relapse.

Drugs of the cortisone group may speed recovery if given early in the course of the disease.

Q—The doctor told a friend that she was completely recovered from infectious mononucleosis but she still gets nauseated in the morning. What would cause this?

A—There are many causes of nausea but this is not a common symptom of infectious mononucleosis. Some other cause should be sought.

Q—My daughter plans to marry a man who had infectious mononucleosis about a year ago. Can she get it from him?

A—If she were to get this disease from her fiancé, she

Doctor Answers Questions About Dental Troubles

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

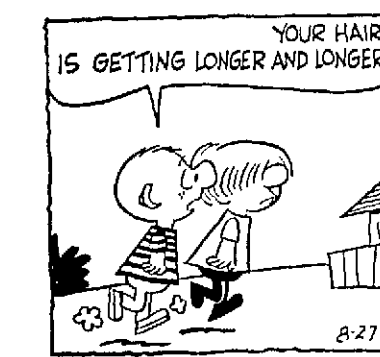

Q—I have to use dental floss after every meal. What's the right way to use it?

A—If you have to use dental floss after every meal, then there must be something wrong with your teeth: faulty contact due to poorly contoured fillings; decay between teeth; periodontal difficulty; natural spaces between teeth that should be corrected.

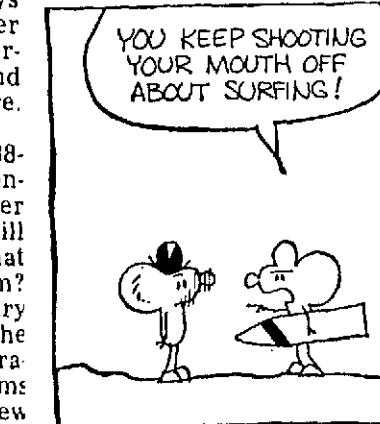

There is a right way to use floss. Hold it so that fingers of both hands are close together. In that way, only an inch or two of floss has to be controlled, instead of a long strand. Then slowly and carefully saw the floss between the teeth until it just slides past the contact point. Try not to let it strike hard on the gums because it can damage them and start an infection.

Don't remove floss the same way it went in. Hold one end and pull it out the side. If impacted food can't be dislodged this way, make a loose knot at

Different Views From Politicians

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's confident prediction that the Democrats will hold their strength in Congress in the November elections drew strong dissent today from Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Johnson observed Wednesday at a news conference that he thinks the people generally approve of what he is trying to do.

He followed this up by telling party workers at a "dollars for Democrats" rally that if they plug his administration's record "we will have a resounding Democratic victory. In the congressional campaign this year."

If the President believes that, Dirksen said in an interview, he is likely to be in for some surprises.

"There is a definite trend in the country against this administration and for the Republicans," Dirksen said. "The mood of the people is such that I believe we are going to make substantial gains in Senate and House races."

Asked what he thinks is the basis for this mood, he replied: "Everything. There is a tapestry of discontent being woven out of war, inflation, the high cost of living, our gold difficulties, violent demonstrations in the streets and other things I could recite endlessly. The mood is there and it is growing."

Johnson noted that since 1890 the party not occupying the White House had gained an average of 41 seats in elections when the presidency is not at stake.

"But I do not have the feeling that there will be any substantial turnover in either the House or the Senate," he added.

The President called on the Republicans to point to any district where they felt sure of winning.

The projects, and number of youths to be accommodated:

Crawford County Development Council Inc., Van Buren 193 and $100,680; Fort Smith 150 and $358,180; Avoca, Inc., Dardanelle, 327 and $173,860.

Tito Defends His Action

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito says unspecified enemies from abroad are stirring up enemies of socialism in Yugoslavia "to undermine the successful development of our country."

Tito appeared to have in mind the case of riter Mihlo Mihajlov who was arrested earlier this month when he tried to start a magazine opposed to the ruling Communist party.

Communist officials have accused him of being an agent of the United States.

Philosophy of Double Plenty Breaks Down Where a Man Works

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — We live today in a two-of-everything world.

It is getting so a man can't hold his head up proudly any more unless he has a two-car garage, and dwells in a house that has at least two telephones, two television sets and two or more bathrooms. Many of the bathrooms even have two wash basins — for Mr. and Mrs.

But this philosophy of double plenty breaks down completely when a man goes to work. There he gets only one of everything — except perhaps in the matter of paper clips.

What profiteth a man to dwell in a house with two bathrooms, two cars and two television sets if he has to work in an office where he is allowed only one desk and one swivel chair?

Subconsciously, he can't help feeling that he is a failure. To have only one of anything today is a sign of lack of success. Deep in his mind lies the conviction that if he were really getting ahead at the office he would have two of everything there, too — two desks, two swivel chairs and even two secretaries.

It may be argued that this is childish, that while it would be a pleasant status symbol to have an extra secretary to check up on the first one's spelling errors, no man could possibly have any use for a second swivel chair or a second desk.

But he could. Any psychiatrist will tell you that too much sameness leads to boredom and boredom causes fatigue. One of the reasons a tired businessman gets so tired is that he sits in the same old hot swivel chair all day long.

If he had two swivel chairs, perhaps one with a hard cushion and one with a soft cushion, he could switch back and forth so that neither became overheated. This would enable him to keep a cool head so important in making those keen, cold, logical decisions required in modern business.

Why two desks? The advantages of having a second desk should be obvious to any thoughtful student of office habits. A man with only one desk finds it never has enough space. It may look neat on top, but within all is chaos. His personal belongings are all mixed up with his business files.

He lives in dread of the day when his boss will stroll up and ask for an important folder — and instead of pulling out the folder he'll pluck out a race track form.

If a man has two desks, such trifleds could be averted. He could use one desk for business papers, and the other desk as a kind of home away from home.

No great society can be truly great until a man has two of everything in his office as well as at home.

Bailey Wins Another Stay of Execution

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Luther Bailey of Woodson, who has been on Tucker Prison Farm's death row longer than anyone else, won a new stay of execution Thursday from the Arkansas Supreme Court.

Bailey, a Negro, was convicted of raping a white Little Rock woman in 1955. He has been kept from the state's electric chair several times because of stays. He was scheduled to die Sept. 2.

The court set no terminal date for the stay.

Bailey's latest effort is based on a U. S. Supreme Court decision on proper police procedure in making arrests and taking confessions. The court said the delay would allow Bailey's attorneys time to attack the legality of Bailey's confession, or delve into any other defenses it sought to offer.

Citizens Group Incorporates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Citizens Judicial Foundation of Arkansas has been incorporated by a group of attorneys and laymen to study possible reforms in the state's court system.

The nonprofit organization will recommend legislation or constitutional amendments, or both, to improve the courts, a spokesman said.

An attorney for the organization said it was an outgrowth of a three-day Citizens Conference on the Courts held last year at Hot Springs. Temporary chairman of the group, which was incorporated in Pulaski County Circuit Court Wednesday, is Walter Hussman of Camden.

Agreement Brings Some Disatisfaction

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some civil rights groups are dissatisfied with the agreement reached between Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Chicago officials over bringing open housing to the city and they plan to continue demonstrations.

Promises from city, church and business leaders to promote open housing vigorously led King and some other civil rights leaders to call off plans for further demonstrations and postpone plans to march into suburban all-white Cicero Sunday.

But within hours of the agreement's announcement Friday, members of the West Side Organization, another integration group, denounced terms of the agreement and announced plans to continue demonstrations.

Robert Lucas, chairman of the Chicago chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality, also issued a statement denouncing the actions of King's group.

Lucas said the CORE chapter would meet today to decide whether to march into Cicero. But Chester Robinson, head of the West Side Organization, said more than 300 members of his group as well as members of six other rights groups would march in Cicero Sunday afternoon. He declined to identify the other groups.

Before King called off his Cicero march, Gov. Otto Kerner had promised to call out the Illinois National Guard to maintain order during the march.

Elsewhere on the racial More than 1,000 whites, most of them teen-agers, gathered in the Milwaukee, Wis., suburb of Wauwatosa to watch and jeer a Negro group's eighth consecutive night of civil rights demonstrations.

Africans in UN Trying to Organize

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Africans in the United Nations are working to remodel the International Court of Justice in the Hague so it won't rule against them again as it did in the South-West Africa case.

The court ruled July 18, in cases brought for the African countries generally, that Ethiopia and Liberia had no legal right to claim judgment that South Africa had violated its League of Nations mandate over South-West Africa by introducing racial segregation there.

So the African group of 36 U.N. delegations, in the General Assembly convening Sept. 20, will aim to prevent election of unsympathetic judges to five pending vacancies on the present 15-judge court and to enlarge the court by U.N. Charter amendment so that Africa and Asia will have more representation on it.

The big Western powers can stop any such amendment if they do not mind antagonizing the Africans — and they may choose not to.

No charter amendment can take effect without a two-thirds vote in the assembly and ratification by two-thirds of the 117 U.N. members including all five permanent members of the Security Council — the United States, Britain, France, Nationalist China and the Soviet Union.

But nothing seems likely to keep the Africans from electing sympathetic judges to the court and barring the election of unsympathetic ones.

Electing a judge takes simple majorities in the assembly and the council.

With the Asian-African group of 61 countries, the Africans are

Never Fear, You Are Never Alone If You Are a True Believer

Everyone has heard that "more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." Many believe it. Some can even prove it. This is the story of such a person. We'll call him Jim.

The setting is a city which has a church that was once located in a fashionable neighborhood but now has a smaller congregation due to movement to the suburbs. You know the type, where a vibrant young minister is sent to obtain "experience." And he always gets plenty of it, too.

Just such a preacher in just such a church noticed after his arrival that that every evening about five o'clock a man in dirty work clothes went into the sanctuary for a few moments. His visits were very short but also very regular. At first, the young minister thought he was a repair man, but it was soon apparent that material repairs weren't needed every day. Could it be spiritual repairs were being sought?

One day the man in work clothes was stopped by the minister as his brief visit was concluded. "Is there anything I can do for you, sir? You come by here every day, and I thought maybe I could help you."

"Well, no thanks, preacher. I just come by to talk to God."

"But you don't. . . ." The man of God hesitated.

"Don't say much? Nope, I don't need to. God understands, I just tell him, "God, this is Jim." And God did understand. Maybe in Jim's heart he was asking help, or saying thanks, or giving praise. Whatever his words meant to him, they were well-received daily.

You may think the story ends here, especially since the man named Jim stopped coming to the young minister's church on his daily visits. What had happened? It caused concern to one who had watched Jim every day. Where was he?

About two weeks after he had stopped seeing the man in work clothes come to his church, the young minister was in another part of the city at a hospital seeing a parishioner who was ill. As was his custom, he stopped by the various wards to see other patients as well. In one of them he was told that the man in the corner of the room had been there two weeks without a single visitor. He had been hurt in an automobile accident and the police had brought him in. Now he was dying.

The young minister didn't hesitate. As he approached the man, he recognized him. He was Jim.

"Jim! I'm sorry to find you here, but I'm glad I can be with you. They tell me you haven't had any visitors, and I would have come, if. . . ."

"Oh, but I have had somebody. Every day. About five o'clock in the afternoon. A figure has stood at the foot of my bed and said, "Jim, this is God."

Senators Vote for Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two Democratic Senators from Arkansas voted Thursday for an amendment to delay from Feb. 1, 1967 to Feb. 1, 1968 the effective date for a new $1.60 an hour minimum wage.

Sens. John L. McClellan and J. William Fulbright were among the 40 that voted for the amendment, which was rejected 42-40.

Nixon Denies But Acts Like a Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, out of office almost six years and declining to say whether he has presidential ambitions for 1968, has made an almost incredible number of speeches and statements in 1966.

In the course of them the former vice president probably has given President Johnson more unsolicited advice than any public figure on how to win the war in Viet Nam.

This week he tried his hand at prophecy — or mind-reading — about Johnson and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y. Both men reacted caustically.

Nixon says his only object in speechmaking is to campaign for Republicans seeking election this year. But, since all this keeps him high in the Republican consciousness if he wants another try at the presidency two years from now, what are his thoughts about that?

"I am not going to speculate on 1968," he says.

He seemed politically dead for a while, after he lost the 1960 presidential race and his try for the governorship of California in 1962, but he didn't stay mute long.

By the summer of 1963 he was back in full bloom explaining:

"As the last (Republican) presidential candidate, my role now is to try to guide the thoughts of the Republican party. I will make some speeches and do some writing."

Minimum Wage $1.60 Hour Passed

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed its version of minimum wage legislation that would extend the law's coverage to at least seven million more workers and boost base pay from the present $1.25 to $1.60.

The Senate version, approved by a 51-57 vote Friday, now goes to a conference with the House. The House approved a similar bill 303-93 last May 26.

Sponsors said they are confident the conferees will be able to come to agreement quickly on a compromise version.

The Senate action was a substantial victory for President Johnson, who has pushed the bill, and also promised to give the AFL-CIO its first major success of the 89th Congress.

A Senate filibuster earlier this session killed the AFL-CIO's top-priority item — a measure that would have repealed section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act. The section allows states to ban the union shop.

The minimum wage bill won the votes of 42 Democrats and 15 Republicans on final passage. Opposed were eight Democrats and nine Republicans.

Conferees on the bill will have to decide whether to make the new $1.60 wage floor effective Feb. 1, 1968, as the Senate voted; and Johnson asked, or a year later as the House stipulated.

They also must act on a Republican amendment inserted in the bill Friday over strong opposition that would reduce coverage of the bill by 185,000 workers.

The amendment, sponsored by Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., provides that coverage of retail stores, hotels, motels, restaurants and some other businesses would extend in 1969 only to those doing more than $350,000 in annual business. It passed on a 41-38 vote.

No Compromise by Communists

TOKYO (AP) — A government spokesman said today the forthcoming four-nation whaling conference may face rough sailing because there is no sign the Soviet Union is willing to compromise.

If the Soviets do cooperate, the conference opening Aug. 31 could end in one day, an official of the fisheries agency added. Japan, Norway and the Soviet Union — the three whaling nations — plus Britain, are scheduled to meet for about a week to divide among them the 3,500 blue whale unit catch quota set at the International Whaling Commission's meeting in London in June.

The name Helen Smith does not strike much response among bridge players. However when you refer to her as Helen Sobel Smith you find yourself talking about one of the really great bridge players of all time.

The greatest facet of Helen's style was and is simplicity. She bids simply and plays effortlessly but no one picks up more extra tricks than Helen.

Here is one of her hands from 30 years back. Her partner opened with one club. Even in those days people did not like to open four card majors when they held a four card club suit. East might have overcalled with one diamond but East was vulnerable and saw no future in that suit.

The game was match point duplicate and after West opened the six of hearts Helen saw that everyone would be in four spades and that five odd was a cinch. Helen decided to go after six and a top score.

Do you see how she went about this? It wasn't too difficult. She played the deuce of hearts from dummy. East might well have returned a diamond but East was looking at those little clubs in dummy and East led back the jack of clubs. Helen won that trick with the ace and now was ready for operation top score. She drew trumps with two leads and cashed her king of clubs. Then she played a heart to dummy and discarded her four of clubs on the other high heart. Her next play was to ruff a club in her hand. After that it was a simple matter to return to dummy with the last trump and discard her deuce of diamonds on the 13th club. Lucky, of course, but luck made possible by good play.

Koufax Helps Dodgers Gain in Standings

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bob Bolin started out like the present Sandy Koufax but wound up like the past Sandy Koufax himself stayed in the present, and the result was a 1-0 Los Angeles victory over San Francisco Friday night that topped the Giants from first place in the National League.

(NEA Telephoto)

The loss dropped the Giants one-half game behind the Pittsburgh Pirates, who defeated St. Louis.

Koufax helped move the third-place Dodgers to within 1½ games of the top, pitching a four-hitter for his 21st victory against seven defeats.

When the game was only a few batters old, though, Bolin looked as if he were going to steal the strikeout pitch right out of Koufax's glove.

The Glano right-hander fanned the first five Dodgers he faced, tying the modern major league record for consecutive strikeouts at the start of a game.

But Bolin couldn't maintain the pace and instead switched over to the base on balls pitch, the one Koufax threw so well in the first half of his major league career.

Bolin walked six Dodgers, including two in the eighth inning when Los Angeles scored all four of its runs.

Koufax, on the other hand, walked only one, which is less than the 2½ walks per game he's averaged in the last six years. The story in his first six years was a lot different. In that period he walked 5.3 batters a game.

Bolin finished with eight strikeouts to Koufax' seven, but the Dodger left-hander leads the majors with 261 and easily should win his fourth straight crown in six years.

In becoming the winningest pitcher in the majors, Koufax reduced his major league-leading earned run average to 1.61 and completed his 21st game.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati trimmed Philadelphia 2-0, Atlanta downed New York 6-3 and Houston defeated Chicago 7-4 after taking a 9-8 decision in the completion of a game suspended Aug. 11 after seven innings because of a curfew.

In the American, Baltimore edged Boston 3-2 in 12 innings, New York nipped Detroit 6-5, Minnesota beat Chicago 7-4, Washington topped Cleveland 1-0 and California trimmed Kansas City 5-4.

Chargers to Remain in San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Rumors that the American Football League's Chargers might leave San Diego have been quelled with the sale of the franchise to a group of Southern California businessmen for a record $10 million.

"The San Diego Chargers will remain exactly what the name involves — the San Diego head of the group which bought the team from Barron Hilton, Klein, also president of National General Corp., added that the Chargers will play in San Diego's new 50,000-seat Mission Valley Stadium currently under construction. The stadium is scheduled for completion by the 1967 season.

Negotiations for the sale, announced Thursday, began six months ago, according to Hilton. But Klein added, "I've been at least seven years trying to buy an interest in a Los Angeles or San Diego club."

The $10-million selling price is the highest ever paid for a professional football team, surpassing the $7.1 million paid for the Los Angeles Rams in 1962. Before the recent merger of the AFL and the National Football League, the Chargers had been quoted as worth between $8 and $8 million.

Hilton, founder and president of the Chargers, announced the sale and turned over the presidency to Klein.

Hilton said last year he planned to sell the team in order to devote more time to the Hilton Hotel chain he operates with his father, Conrad. At that time, there were rumors the team would be moved, but Hilton denied them.

Coach and General Manager Sid Gillman, who in the AFL's six-year history led the Chargers to more victories (54) and more division titles (5) than any other club, will retain his posts.

National General Executive Vice President Samuel Schulman is among the 21 partners, as is Pierre Salinger, vice president of Continental Air Lines; Eugene Wyman, attorney and Democratic National Committeeman; and Irving Levin, another National General executive vice president.

Newspaper owner James Copley and restaurateur George Pernicano, two owners under Hilton, will retain their interests.

Mantle Hits Homer, Yanks Beat Tigers

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
It wasn't a playoff for the pennant or the last game of the World Series, but just about everything else surrounding Mickey Mantle's performance Friday had the distinct aura of juvenile sports fiction about it.

The Yankees were down by a run in the bottom of the ninth of their game with Detroit and Clete Boyer was on first. Manager Ralph Houk called on Mantle, the aging superstar, who had been out of the lineup for 11 days with a pulled hamstring mangle in his leg.

"Don't run if you hit it on the ground," said Houk, worried about Mantle's legs. "Just go for the pump."

Mantle swung at the first pitch and missed spectacularly. He swung again and off went the ball into never-never land. he Yanks won 6-5.

"Any time you hit a home run that wins a ball game," said Mickey, "it's a terrific feeling." All but lost in the midst of the Yankee's terrific feeling was Tiger pitcher Earl Wilson who had put Detroit ahead 5-3 with his two-run homer into the third deck in the eighth.

Hank Aguirre had taken over on the mound by the time Mantle came in to hit, but it was hardly much consolation to Wilson who had put Detroit ahead 5-3 with his two-run homer into the third deck in the eighth.

In other American League games, Baltimore beat Boston 3-2 in 12 innings, Minneapolis took Chicago 7-4, Washington shut out Cleveland 1-0 and California beat Kansas City 5-4.

In the National League, Atlanta beat New York 6-3, Cincinnati blanked Philadelphia 2-0, Pittsburgh beat St. Louis 7-4, Houston beat Chicago 9-8 in the completion of a game that had been suspended.

Astros won the regular game 7-1, came off the bench in the ninth inning and clubbed a pair of homers for the Orioles, tying the game 2-2, then Russ Snyder drove in the winning run with a single in the 12th. Lee Stange had held the Birds to just six runs.

Nicklaus and 143 other golfers teed off today in the Philadelphia Golf Classic, a 72-hole test for $110,000 in prize money, including $20,000 first-place loot.

The 26-year-old Nicklaus feels kind of a proprietorship interest in the Philadelphia Classic.

He won the top money each of the last two years over the 6,708 yard, par-72 Whitmarsh course.

Demonstrating that he believes in staying with a winning formula, Nicklaus birdied his favorite hole — the 17th — at Whitmarsh Wednesday in the pro-am.

He missed an eight-foot putt for an eagle, then holed out.

Nicklaus, in 1964, scored an eagle at the 17th that enabled him to finish first, and last year he birdied the same hole to snap a last-round tie with Doug Sanders and Joe Campbell, as he won by one stroke.

Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, and

Palmer also played in the pro-am, but the Latrobe, Pa., golfer hit a couple out of bounds and did not turn in a score card. He didn't practice afterward.

He went to a party given by the tournament sponsors.

The biggest challenge to Nicklaus' domination of the Classic appeared to be Billy Casper, the U.S. Open Champion. Casper came out of his air-conditioned quarters — specially fitted for his allergy condition — to shoot a 69 in the pro-am.

His team won the best-ball event.

The winner of four tournaments this year, the San Diego, Western and Indianapolis 500, as well as the U.S. Open, Casper has been playing the best golf of his 12-year career.

They have found one in Billy Casper, a man who should need little identification — but, strangely, does.

Essentially, Billy is a colorless, solid citizen who gives one-tenth of his earnings to the church, is devoted to his wife Shirley and three children and approaches a golf course with all the outward enthusiasm of an accountant taking the 7-27 train from New Rochelle.

But there is a Casper who's salable in today's market, where hitting a golf ball straight is almost as revered as the first solo plane crossing of the Atlantic (the name was Lindbergh, if you need to be reminded).

"He's the only heavyweight champion," says Fred Corcoran, the entrepreneur who first made pro golf big business, "who trimmed down and became the light heavyweight champion."

The illusion is to Casper's plummeting loss of weight by adhering to such delicacies as buffalo steak and bear meat.

"He weighed 235 when he won the U.S. Open at Winged Foot in 1959," notes Corcoran, "and he was 185 this year for the Open victory at Olympic."

Casper's a natural for novelty food stores that want to peddle whale meat, another of the edibles he favors. I mean, who else savors swordfish and tomatoes for breakfast, when he isn't dipping into morsels of avocado?

The odd result is that this exotic diet, dictated by a most unnatural set of allergies to which Billy is susceptible, hasn't really left him a glamorous figure—even with the 50 pounds trimmed off.

Billy's jowls still betray symptoms of the overweight man. He's still not firm and fully packed like an Arnold Palmer, who exudes animal power. And although he mixes some pastels in his apparel, William Earl Casper Jr. generally comes out looking like

Sandy Faces Life

Special to Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
LOS ANGELES — (NEA)—Travel hasn't broadened the scope of Sanford (Sandy) Koufax.

In fact, it has left him with a worm's eye view of the United States.

"It's hard," he said, "to tell Cincinnati from Pittsburgh. I know San Francisco, because it's so cold. And I know Houston because it's so hot."

Sandy usually sees a city from the inside of a hotel elevator. It's great for privacy but it doesn't do much for claustrophobia.

The great left-hander of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers must perforce suffer the pangs of being a celebrity, and to escape the clutching hands of well-wishers and the eager paws of mamas with marriageable daughters, he's pretty well confined to his hotel room once the team is on road.

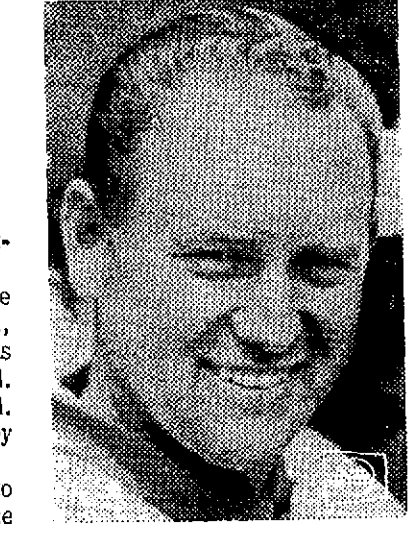

If the air conditioner isn't working, he generally has no trouble identifying where he is—climatically.

But he doesn't get a chance to savor such memorable joys as a trip to the Top of the Mark (San Francisco), Dante's (Pittsburgh), the Cork Club (Houston), a ride on the Staten Island ferry (New York), the Pump Room (Chicago), Gaslight Square (St. Louis), Stone Mountain (Atlanta) or the Liberty Bell (Philadelphia). Did you say Cincinnati? There's a train of thought a guy might be better off sitting in his hotel room watching television—it beats looking at the Ohio River crest.

Sandy measures a city's hospitality by the quality of its room service. He's eaten off so many portable trays, he feels like an ambulatory cafeteria.

DOES THE WORLD LOVE A FAT MAN?

CASPER NOW . . . AND THEN

BILLY CASPER dieted down to a svelte 185 and won the U.S. Open title . . .

. . . BUT BILLY also won it when he was a butterball of 235 pounds in 1959.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Ever since Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player swallowed up professional golf and became the biggest merchandising unit (as the Big Three) since Disneyland, the "out" golfers have been looking for a leader.

They have found one in Billy Casper, a man who should need little identification — but, strangely, does.

Essentially, Billy is a colorless, solid citizen who gives one-tenth of his earnings to the church, is devoted to his wife Shirley and three children and approaches a golf course with all the outward enthusiasm of an accountant taking the 7-27 train from New Rochelle.

But there is a Casper who's salable in today's market, where hitting a golf ball straight is almost as revered as the first solo plane crossing of the Atlantic (the name was Lindbergh, if you need to be reminded).

"He's the only heavyweight champion," says Fred Corcoran, the entrepreneur who first made pro golf big business, "who trimmed down and became the light heavyweight champion."

The illusion is to Casper's plummeting loss of weight by adhering to such delicacies as buffalo steak and bear meat.

"He weighed 235 when he won the U.S. Open at Winged Foot in 1959," notes Corcoran, "and he was 185 this year for the Open victory at Olympic."

Casper's a natural for novelty food stores that want to peddle whale meat, another of the edibles he favors. I mean, who else savors swordfish and tomatoes for breakfast, when he isn't dipping into morsels of avocado?

The odd result is that this exotic diet, dictated by a most unnatural set of allergies to which Billy is susceptible, hasn't really left him a glamorous figure—even with the 50 pounds trimmed off.

Billy's jowls still betray symptoms of the overweight man. He's still not firm and fully packed like an Arnold Palmer, who exudes animal power. And although he mixes some pastels in his apparel, William Earl Casper Jr. generally comes out looking like a self-conscious weekend golfer.

Billy seems consigned to drabness as a personality because he's so businesslike in his approach to the game, a tight-lipped perfectionist who has studied the odds and figured out what it takes to win.

His feat in overcoming a deficit of seven strokes on the back nine to win the Open this year should be recorded as one of the great finishes of the history of golf.

"It's a shame," says Ken Venturi, who had his own dramatic moment in winning at Congressional over Palmer in '64, "this will be known as the Open Palmer lost, not the one which Casper won."

Casper comes closest to being emotional when he details his Open win, probably the most important of his career since it emphasized that golf wasn't really being dominated by Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, and that Casper himself was the second leading money winner of all time.

"It was decided on the 15th hole," recalls Billy, "when my putt (a 20-footer for a birdie 2) stayed in and Arnie's stayed out (for a bogey 4). Until then I'd been playing for second place. If I were going to make up shots, it should have been on the 11th and 12th holes. But now for the first time Arnie realized he could lose the tournament."

"I never heard any screams for Billy until we were walking up to the 16th hole."

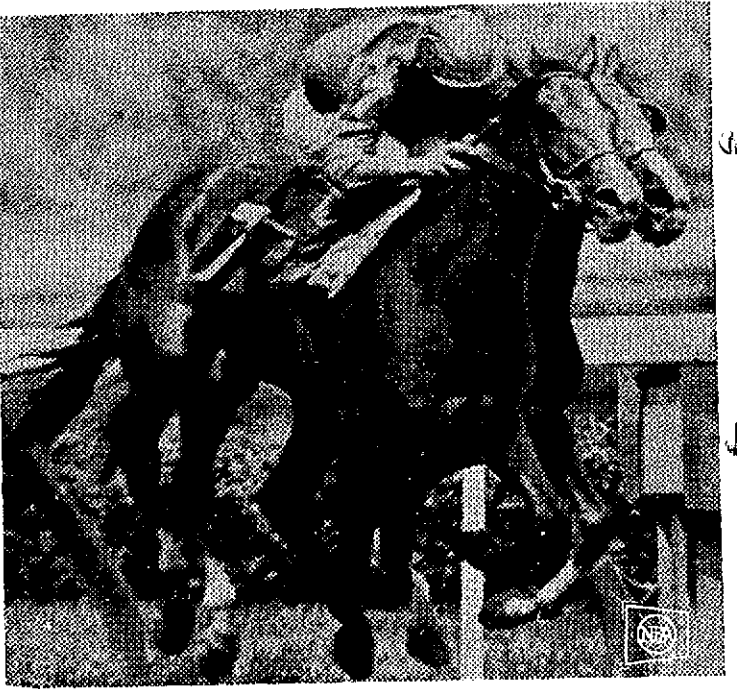

It was unique and stirring for deadpan Billy. The rest is in the record. He's the only golfer with four tournament victories this year (San Diego, U.S. Open, Western Open and Indianapolis).

The other golfers talk about him. Phil Rodgers, a quaint one, sat around the clubhouse one afternoon and mused. "It's not Casper's day. He needs an eight-mile-an-hour wind before he can go out and play." To blow the allergies away.

Well, maybe that's what it takes to be a memorable golfer.

One of the gripping publicity releases of all time came out of the recent PGA in Akron. It detailed a moment of crisis for young Jack Nicklaus.

"The faintness and pain apparently came when he drank some juices too quick. He belched several times after standing up and the pain disappeared."

IN STEP as they head down the home stretch . . . these two horses provided an exciting finish at Aqueduct. They also enabled Hal Mathewson to win a first prize in the New York Racing Association's annual photo contest.

Pro Charts By MURRAY OLDERMAN

---Pittsburgh Steelers---

OFFENSE

PASSING—Probably poorest in pro ball, next to Atlanta. Bill Nelsen, who operated with bad knee last year, showed flashes. He's cocky, but doesn't have as strong an arm as Tommy Wade, who's totally inexperienced. Coach Bill Austin will have to be patient. RATING—D

RECEIVING—Could be strangest department on club. Gary Ballman is best athlete on Steelers. Roy Jefferson, a soph, isn't far behind. And they like J. R. Wilburn, a South Carolina rookie. Tight end problem could be solved with trade for Packer draftee Tony Jeter. RATING—B+

Gary Ballman Ben McGee

RUNNING—They're going the no names routine since John Henry Johnson was waived out. Austin insists Mike Lind is a solid fullback. Dick Hoak gets most out of limited ability. Clarence Peaks might still have a glimmer of old form. The kids—Dick Leftridge, Cannonball Butler—still have a lot to learn. RATING—C

LINE—Used to be strongpoint on Steelers, but Austin has been critical of their blocking on runs. Could start with a rookie, Pat Kilmer, at center. Bill says guards are small, but Mike Sandusky has the savvy. With Ray Lemek retired, Mike Magac or rookie Larry Gagner looms as running mate. Tackles Charley Bradshaw, Dan James are fairly well set. RATING—B-

KICKING—As a punter, Frank Lambert will match anyone in league for distance. He could be a league leader. The placekicking, entrusted to Mike Clark last year, was just so-so. Too many missed extra points. RATING—B

DEFENSE

LINE—Some impressive horses—particularly on the flanks, where Ben McGee and John Baker provide the pass rush. Baker's not as consistent as Ben. The tackles are O.K., too, with Chuck Hinton and Riley Gunnels a pair of retrains who're steady. And they'll have to hustle to stay ahead of Lloyd Voss, picked up from Green Bay. RATING—B

LINEBACKING—Rather nondescript. Peddled away ex all-pro Myron Pattas, but compensated by return of Andy Russell from army. Lineup right now would probably have Russell and Gene Brech in the corners. Roo Broadlove in the middle. Bill Saul, Ed Pine make the job competition interesting. RATING—C-

SECONDARY—Return of Clendon Thomas to defense bolsters the deep protection. He'll be one safety. Brady Keys, Jim Bradshaw, Willie Daniel round out a unit that knows the ropes and has the ability to do a job. Marv Woodson has a chance to out one of them, but otherwise the quality drops off sharply. RATING—C

SUMMARY—New coach Austin is selling optimism this year. He maintains the Steelers aren't all that bad as their record (2-12), poorest in pro ball last year, shows. Their defense is good. But he'll really be a miracle man if he can win with his offensive backfield. PREDICTION—SEVENTH
